General Boat Description

2013 Ocean Sport 30 — Diesel Package

Built for serious Northwest boating, this 2013 Ocean Sport 30 combines a proven offshore hull with the efficiency and long-range capability of the diesel power package. She is equally at home running offshore for a day of fishing, cruising the San Juan Islands, or making longer coastal passages.

The Ocean Sport 30 is known for its solid ride, excellent visibility, and practical fishing layout. The deep-V hull handles rough Pacific Northwest conditions with confidence, while the diesel package provides dependable power and economical cruising.

With a cruise speed in the mid-to-upper 20-knot range, she can cover serious distance without sacrificing comfort or efficiency. The diesel engines also offer the torque and range that make this boat particularly well suited for offshore use.

For the fisherman, the 30 is a highly capable platform. There is plenty of cockpit space for multiple anglers, room to work around a fish, and the stability and freeboard needed when conditions deteriorate. The layout is designed around actually fishing rather than simply looking the part, with ample room for gear, tackle, coolers, and the day's catch.

Inside, the pilothouse provides a warm, protected helm and comfortable cruising environment, making this a true four-season boat for the Northwest.
